🔫 TIP OF THE DAY—June 25, 2025 🔫

Want to Get Better at Drawing from Concealment? Here's How.

If you're serious about carrying, then your draw needs to be smooth, fast, and second nature. Here's how to make that happen:

👉 Train Like You Mean It

Start with dry-fire. Add live-fire. Get to know your gear inside and out. Repetition builds muscle memory—and that's what saves time when it counts.

👉 Don't Just Stand There

Real life doesn't happen on a flat range in perfect weather. Practice in different lighting, positions, and even with your non-dominant hand. Make your training messy, just like real life.

👉 Clean Up the Fundamentals

Your grip, stance, and draw motion should be second nature. Record yourself or use a mirror—what feels fast might actually be sloppy. Precision beats speed every time... until they're both dialed in.

👉 Time Yourself, Track Progress

Use a shot timer or phone app. Keep score. You can't fix what you don't measure. Small improvements add up fast.

👉 Train With People Who Push You

Workshops, classes, and training days with experienced instructors will elevate your skills. Surround yourself with people who take it seriously—you'll improve more quickly.

When facing a deadly force threat, you will fall to the level of your training, not rise to the level of your expectations.
